They Trim Their Sails and Come Over the Line With Three Runs to None for Tigers.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Roanoke, Va., June 4.—Buck Pressley and his aggregation of Tars found the going good this afternoon, and immediately following a heavy rain the skipper trimmed his sails, and after several tacks was able to shove two runs across. Roanoke's new man, Shea, at short, was credited with two bungles, which aided the visitors in the run-getting. The Tars played steady and consistent ball behind Hall, who pitched good ball. Effed was in good form, but at times his support was poor. There was no heavy hitting, but two pretty double plays, in which Cleveland and Pressley figured, were features of the contest. The visitors scored their third run in the third inning, and after that were unable to get a man around. The score:
